

BUSINESS LEADERS ARE COMING HERE

A party of distinguished officials and directors of the National Biscuit company, famous business institution which recently acquired the Atlanta plant of the Frank E. Block company, will visit Atlanta next Tuesday to be honored guests at a banquet to be tendered them by the industrial bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and Brooks Morgan, head of the Block plant.

The visiting party will include 15 New York financiers, its membership consisting of R. E. Tomlinson, president National Biscuit company; H. H. Tomlinson, vice president National Biscuit company; A. G. Butler, vice president National Biscuit company; G. P. Wells, secretary-treasurer National Biscuit company; C. A. Viles, general counsel National Biscuit company; Frederick Boers, general manager National Biscuit company; Charles E. Davis, chemist National Biscuit company; R. A. Fairbank, director National Biscuit company; Edward S. Moore, director National Biscuit company; Edward S. Low, director National Biscuit company; Vincent D. Vandenberg, director National Biscuit company; E. Y. Cross, vice president National Biscuit company; Jackson Reynolds, president First National Bank; F. C. Loefer, president National Sugar Refining company; and Melvin A. Taylor, president First National Bank, Chicago.

They will arrive in Atlanta Tuesday afternoon and will return to New York Wednesday. To the dinner Tuesday night at the apartment club in their honor will be invited 250 representative Georgians, including members of the press and bankers who will be here attending the Georgia Bankers' association convention. Addresses will be made by Mr. Reynolds, president of the First National Bank; Mr. Tomlinson, president of the National Biscuit company; and by leaders of local business establishments.

The National Biscuit company is one of the greatest business concerns in the United States, and acquisition of the Block company here is evidence of the general success it is meeting.

MELL GORE BAPTIZED IN BELLWOOD CHURCH

Mell Gore, condemned to die for the murder of W. H. Cheek, Peachtree road grocer, was taken from the Fulton tower Wednesday afternoon by special orders granted by Sheriff James I. Lowry and Judge John D. Humphries to the Bellwood Baptist church, where the ordinance of baptism was administered to him in the presence of many friends and church members.

The Bellwood Baptist church had claimed Mell Gore as one of its members some time ago, and after a long time of pleading for the right to baptize him in the church, after many assurances that Gore would come and go unmolested, the permission was granted. Rev. W. N. Pruitt, pastor of the church, baptized Gore in the presence of his mother, Mrs. J. B. Gore, his crippled sister, Belle, who had come from Villa Rica for the ceremony, and the mother of Ruby Ray, the "girl in the case" who is serving a five-year sentence in Milledgeville as an accessory after the murder of Cheek.

It was the first time in the history of the church that a condemned man had been baptized in the church.

MONEY ORDER BLANKS STOLEN AT BLADEN

Money order blanks and a money order business stamp were stolen Wednesday night from the post office at Bladen, Ga., according to a wire received Thursday by Joe P. Johnston, postoffice inspector in charge.

Mr. Johnston issued a warning to the public to watch out for forged money orders as a result of the robbery, the serial numbers of the stolen blanks being from 7,317 to 7,399, inclusive.

Straus Brothers Make $3,000 Gift To Home Town

The unsolicited contribution of the sum of $3,000 to be used for erection of a community house in Talbotton, home of their father and grandfather, by Jesse Isidor, Herbert N. and Percy Straus, executives of the R. H. Macy & Co. department store, of New York, came to light in a letter received from Talbotton Thursday by Colonel F. J. Paxon, of the Davidson-Paxon company, affiliated with Macy's.

The writer of the letter was A. P. Persons, prominent Talbotton attorney and chairman of the citizens' committee from that town which came to Atlanta to greet Jesse and Herbert Straus on the recent occasion of the opening of the new Davidson-Paxon store here.

"Our friends in New York" have kindly remembered the old home town of their ancestors," Mr. Persons wrote to Colonel Paxon, acquainting him with the handsome donation. Jesse Isidor Straus, Herbert N. Straus and Percy S. Straus have contributed $3,000 towards purchasing and improving a community house in Talbotton. This was widely mentioned and, in a voluntary get-out on the part of the Straus, is very highly appreciated.

The property to be improved and converted into an auditorium and community house is the old LeVert college property in Talbotton. We wish for you to know what fine gentlemen you are associated."

LeVert college, added to in the latter, is one of the oldest educational institutions in Georgia. It flourished before the war, drawing its student body from all parts of the state.

Lazarus Straus, grandfather of the present Macy executives, came to Talbotton many years ago, bringing with him his three sons, Isidor, father of the three brothers who are now at the head of Macy's; Oscar and Nathan. Lazarus Straus first established himself in the mercantile business at Talbotton and his sons spent their boyhood there.

Later they removed to New York and became associated with the Macy company. The grandsons of Lazarus

Over 100 Enter Horse Show Here For Next Week

Georgia, noted for fine horses, will present to the southeast one of the finest horse shows held in many years next Monday and Tuesday afternoon when the second annual horse show will be held at the Sunnyside track in Garden Hills by the Atlanta Horse Show association.

Tickets for the event were placed on sale Thursday at the Davidson-Paxon company store and met an instant response. The show promises to be the finest held here in years, both from the viewpoint of events and entries and from the number of spectators attracted.

Twenty-five classes of thoroughbreds will be shown during the two afternoons of the show and those with embrace many of the south's most famous champions. The classes will range from five-year-old saddle horses to yearlings, and include the finest in America, to children's ponies which will be handled by boys and girls.

Entries in the show have been received from foremost horse breeders in many states and from prominent society people throughout this part of the country. Already more than 100 entries have been placed.

On Monday afternoon the proceeds will be given to the Martha Berry school and it is expected that this will assist in bringing out large crowd. A grandstand has been placed under construction which, when completed, will accommodate 2,500 patrons. Boxes also are being constructed.

The event is being handled by officials of the Atlanta Horse Show association—Robert E. Harvey, president; Homer Thompson, secretary, and P. C. McDuffie, treasurer.

Open Air Program Marks White Way Opening Saturday

An elaborate program of talks and music will be given at the corner of Gordon and Lee streets in West End Saturday night at 6 o'clock in celebration of the opening of the new white way which extends for more than a block each way from the center of the business district of West End.

A band concert will start the program at 6 o'clock after which several prominent speakers will relate the history and progress of the community. Several novelty features have also been planned for the celebration, and the evening will conclude with dancing.

FLORIDA DEPARTMENT IS 'MAYFAIR' FEATURE

Plans for the approaching "Mayfair" exhibit of the results of a year's work on the part of students of Atlanta public schools in the study of nature to be put on next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, are fast nearing completion with the selection of on-out flowers occupying the center of the stage Thursday, according to Miss Hattie Rainwater, supervisor.

One of the features of "Mayfair" and one of the most important of the 13 committees who have been laboring for perfection of the plans for the exhibit, will be the committee on flowers. It has been announced that the exhibit will practically become a flower show in itself, and the spacious rooms of Tatt hall in which "Mayfair" is to be given will prove more than adequate.

A wealth of material is at hand in the nature of plants, potted and cut flowers, shrubs, bird houses, nature photography, sand tables and look-alikes. The 2,500 students involved have devoted much time to the coming exhibit.

Many prizes have been offered by Atlanta newspapers, individuals and local and national firms.

Children have been pruning and caring for their plants so that the best of the fruit would be in evidence for the show.

Some 100 original poems and playlets on nature will be read during the exhibit and prizes have been offered in this line. One of the features will be competition in the role of mockingbirds by groups of boys who have been practicing in imitation of the different birds.

BLIND AND GUIDE MAY RIDE TRAINS ON SINGLE TICKET

The state public service commission Thursday approved a new rule submitted to that body which will permit all carriers in Georgia to carry a totally blind person and another person accompanying as guide, on one ticket. The rule will permit all carriers to take this course should they desire, according to James A. Perry, chairman.

Mr. Perry said in some states railroads will not accept a passenger who is totally blind unless another person accompanies him as guide. In such instances, two tickets would be required. The new rule will permit the railroads to carry the two passengers on one ticket which will grant much relief to many blind persons who are required, in their business, to travel from place to place.

Camp Fire Girls Sell 3,000 Dozen In Doughnut Drive

As pastry sales girls Atlanta's Camp Fire girls have established a record as "bustlers" having induced Atlantans to purchase more than 3,000 dozen doughnuts during the course of a profit campaign which closes today at noon. A special effort will be made to dispose of an additional 2,000 dozen before the closing hour, it was announced by Miss Louise Holland, executive secretary.

Proceeds from the sale are to go to the Camp Fire girls' summer camp at Towson Falls, Ga., while funds not used for this purpose will be set aside against establishment of a permanent camp for the Atlanta chapter.

Auxiliary To Meet.

Members of the Ladies' auxiliary to the Atlanta Lodge No. 229 B. E. T. will hold their regular meeting Tuesday, May 17, at 2 o'clock at the Red Men's wigwam, 86 Central avenue.

WREN'S NEST TO HOLD BABY SHOW SATURDAY

Twenty-two babies have already been registered for the baby show which will be held at the Wren's Nest, on Gordon street, in West End, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded. The show is under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Hastings and Mrs. Arthur Hale.

Immediately after the show a table for the Boone highway will be in veiled and presented to the Uncle Remus Memorial association. The ceremony will take place on the stage at Snap Bean farm, just back of the Wren's Nest.

The unveiling of the tablet will be in charge of Mrs. Norma Sells, who has assisted at two of the Boone highway programs before. After the tablet is presented, the annual Uncle Remus Flower festival will be presented, in which several hundred children will take part.

Pensions Mailed.

Confederate pensioners of Georgia will receive a total of $427,000 from the state for the second quarter of 1927. It was announced at a public office of Pension Commissioner John W. Clark Thursday. Checks for the pensions were mailed to the various counties Thursday.

FLOODS RAVAGE 6,000,000 ACRES

New Orleans, May 12.—(AP)—More than 6,000,000 acres in seven states have been submerged by the greatest flood in the history of the Mississippi river valley.

Kentucky, Missouri, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Illinois and Louisiana each have felt the fury of the angry Mississippi and its tributaries as the streams, fed by rains and melting winter's snows turned their waters toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Arkansas, in the floods of the St. Francis, the White, the Cache, the Black and the Arkansas and Little rivers, added to the backwaters of the Mississippi itself, was hardest hit with 3,477,000 acres inundated.

Thirty-nine thousand, three hundred acres were submerged in Kentucky.

Tennessee saw 466,000 acres disappear beneath the muddy current.

In Missouri 722,500 acres were inundated by the Mississippi, the St. Francis, the Black and Little rivers.

Most another million acres were covered in Louisiana as the Mississippi, fed by the water of the bay from the lowlands of other states, burst through levees to meet the flood waters of the Arkansas river in northeastern Louisiana, covering the greater part of eleven parishes.

Still other thousands of acres were flooded in Mississippi and Illinois.

3 AMERICAN PLANES WAIT WORD TO GO

That which seems to have cost Captain Nungesser and Col. Lindbergh their lives was started by American airmen from the flying fields of Long Island at the first report of favorable weather.

Three planes, ranging in size from the giant Fokker biplane to the diminutive Bellanca monoplane which could be hidden beneath one of the former's wings, were in the air.

Their pilots are highly nervous lest a rival fleet started first upon the hazardous journey.

The fate of the gallant French flyers, unheard from after five days, has proven a stimulus rather than a deterrent to the little group of Americans.

Fervent and secret preparations at the corrugated iron hangar where the Bellanca plane is housed were followed by announcements that Lindbergh, Bertrand and Clarence Chamberlin were ready to start at daybreak Friday.

The diminutive "Columbia" apparently has the edge on its rivals, the "American" of Commander Byrd and the "Spirit of St. Louis" of Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, in the matter of preparation.

Then came reports of "an area of low pressure northwest of the Azores" which might develop into a storm area, and the Bellanca headquarters announced postponement of the start until the weather improves.

But the Bellanca monoplane was not to have things its own way.

Rivals Arrive.

On the heels of the announcement, the airplanes of Byrd and Lindbergh came swooping down from the skies to join the race.

The latter arrived at Carlisle field, St. Louis shortly before 6 p. m., after having established a new record for non-stop flight by a lone American pilot.

He had flown at an average rate of 223 miles a minute. The distance was 350 miles.

The flight of Captain Lindbergh began Tuesday at San Diego. On Wednesday morning he was in St. Louis, where he obtained more fuel and help.

ped off the following morning for Cur-

Meanwhile, Commander Byrd of north pole fame was bringing the big Fokker biplane from Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

Within 15 minutes after Lindbergh's monoplane landed at Curtiss field, the wheels of the "American" touched the ground at Roosevelt field, nearby.

It was thought that both planes would reach their final resting place as the Bellanca monoplane, which recently established a record for sustained flight, already has received.

Excitement Intense.

The arrival within a few minutes of each other of Commander Byrd and Captain Lindbergh at the Long Island flying fields greatly increased the excitement here.

All the pilots were secretive as to their intentions.

"Will you fly right on to Paris?" Lindbergh was asked when he stepped from the "Spirit of St. Louis" after his dash from St. Louis Thursday.

The slender Missouri Thursday merely smiled.

From the Byrd camp word that the "American" which the hero of the north pole flight will pilot may follow the northerly Atlantic route attempted by Nungesser and Coli.

It also was said that the Fokker plane could not start for a week, but Byrd's rival was confident for the flight.

How long it will take Lindbergh to make ready is not known. The long journey from San Diego to New York must have taxed his monoplane considerably.

Weather Map Awful.

Receipt of a weather map at 11 p. m. Thursday was eagerly awaited by Bertrand and Chamberlin, who insisted they were ready to hop off at the first sign of favorable weather.

Such is the case with the Bellanca plane, which is entirely ready to start. Chamberlin and Bertrand will follow a more direct route for Paris than that along which the Frenchmen met their fate.

Damrosch Named Musical Counsel For Radio Firm

New York, May 12.—(United Press)—Walter Damrosch, dean of American orchestra conductors, has accepted the post of musical counsel for the National Broadcasting company.

Damrosch, whose resignation as conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra was effective at the end of this season, will officiate and advise in all matters relating to the higher musical activities of the broadcasting company.

The new counsel will produce a series of concerts, supplemented by talks, designed to reach a majority of the 25,000,000 students in American schools and colleges.

"My experiences of the past winter in broadcasting orchestral concerts with the New York Symphony orchestra," Damrosch said, "have so amply borne out my belief in the extraordinary possibilities of the radio that I have accepted with the greatest interest the position offered me."

"I propose to give 24 orchestral concerts with explanatory comments on the works presented and on the instruments of symphony orchestra. These concerts shall be broadcast to every school and college in the country that chooses to accept them. There will be three series of eight concerts each, with carefully graded programs, one for the elementary schools, another for high schools, and the third for colleges."

China Aftermath?

The note charged that Russian leaders in "China" had sought to injure British prestige at home and in China and India, it made the suggestion of a possible break in Russo-British relations unless Russia checked the utterances of her leaders which tended to inflame sentiment against the British government.

Russia, in a rather curt reply, pointed out that British leaders had been as guilty in the matter of statements adverse to the Russian government as Russia had been in the matter of statements adverse to the British government.

Feeling in Great Britain against the alleged circulation of radical Russian doctrines throughout the world reached its height during the recent Chinese crisis when a section of the British cabinet urged severance of all relations with Russia.

SMASHED LEEVE ADDS 65,000 FLOOD VICTIMS

L. O. Crosby, flood relief director for Mississippi and other relative plans for the rehabilitation of the flooded area of the valley. The inundation problem of getting farm families back to their farms and providing them with livestock and seeds was the chief topic discussed at the conference.

The secretary declined to comment on the numerous appeals to President Coolidge for a special session of congress.

Discussing the future problem of controlling the Mississippi river and its floods, Mr. Hoover said:

"Congress will have to face the problem in next fall of arriving at a plan to prevent the floods in the future."

"The government cannot permit periodical disasters that inflict losses amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars upon the country."

Mr. Hoover declared that the $10,000,000 relief fund collected by the Red Cross would be wholly inadequate to meet the demands of flood sufferers. The sum of money needed, he said, cannot be determined until the work has had another 10 days in which to complete its devastating work in Louisiana.

ITALIAN FLIER HOPS OFF TODAY FOR PENSACOLA

Charleston, S. C., May 12.—(AP)—Colonel Francesco DePinedo, Italian, four-continent flier, expects to hop off on route to New Orleans, Fla., overnight stop. He will refuel at Pensacola, remaining possibly an hour.

The giant Santa Maria II, the amphibious plane which replaced the one burned at Roosevelt Dam, Ariz., he faced perfectly on the 640-mile non-stop flight here this morning from Philadelphia, the Italian reported on arrival. He made the trip in six and one-half hours. Colonel DePinedo will speed on to the completion of his 20,000-mile journey in the hope of reaching Rome by May 24, in time for the anniversary celebration of the day Italy entered the world war.

DRASTIC DIVORCE RULES PLANNED BY PRESBYTERIANS

Pittsburgh, May 12.—(AP)—Discussion will cease to be a recognized cause for divorce in the Presbyterian church if the recommendation of a special subcommittee made public today is accepted.

The recommendation proposes that the confession of faith be amended to make adultery the only recognized cause for divorce and to limit divorced persons who may be remarried in the church to the innocent parties in divorce actions based on adultery.

The Presbyterian church is the only one of the confessional Protestant churches—which includes the Episcopal, Methodist, Lutheran, the Reformed Church in America, the United Methodist Church in the United States and the Christian Reformed church—which recognizes any cause for divorce except adultery.

ISLAND SALES NOT AUTHORIZED, FILIPINO SAYS

Manila, May 12.—(AP)—Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, declared Governor-General Wood's recently announced determination to sell government-controlled enterprises in the islands was "without lawful authorization" and is "the most absolute despotism," in a statement issued today.

Quezon, who was an ex-officio member of the insular board of control which was abolished by Wood, declared the new policy was "entirely inappropriate while the legality of the control board's abolition is still in process of appeal, and declared the government would be unable to dispose of government property legally without the approval of the insular legislature.

WIDOW OF CROAKER CLAIMS HUSBAND WAS IRISH CITIZEN

Jacksonville, Fla., May 12.—(AP)—Bits of evidence gathered in Ireland, including an Irish flag and Irish racing calendars, were exhibited in federal court here today in the effort by the second wife of Richard Croaker, former Tammany leader, to prove that he was a citizen of Ireland, in support of her claim to his West Palm Beach estate, against the claims of his four children by an earlier marriage.

At Croaker's death, the West Palm Beach holdings were valued variously as from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000.

The children assert that he was a citizen of Florida and that they are thereby entitled to a homestead interest in the property which was deeded to his wife.

THREE MOTORISTS HURT IN CRASHES

Three motorists were slightly injured in a collision Thursday night between two automobiles on Washington street, near the intersection of Richardson street.

Cut about the face, from flying, Miss Mariel Taylor, 15, of East Point, who was riding with her mother, was treated at Grady hospital, while Mrs. Tyler and Max Pomerance, of 71 Richardson street, who drove the other car, escaped with minor bruises, according to the report of Patrolman Evans.

T. M. Wells, 21-year-old Oglethorpe university student, and Miss Virginia Harre, 19, of 3615 Peachtree road, were treated at Grady hospital Thursday night for lacerations about the face, received in an automobile accident.

Doctors did not learn where the accident occurred and no report of the mishap was filed at police headquarters.

Miss Sarah Mae Carswell, of Decatur, Ga., was slightly injured Thursday morning when knocked to the street by an automobile driven by V. E. More, police reports show. The accident occurred at Pryor and Hunter streets.

HOWSE IS REELECTED MAYOR OF NASHVILLE

Nashville, Tenn., May 12.—(AP)—Hilary C. Howse was reelected mayor of Nashville today with a majority of 2,133 over his opponent, T. J. Mc Morrow. The figures: Howse, 5,221; Mc Morrow, 3,229.

Dr. W. W. Fannin and George J. Tompkins were elected to the board of public works over Wallace H. Gholston.

T. Watson Batts received 1,232 votes for city judge, losing to the incumbent, Roscoe Matthews, who received 4,553.

Judge Divides Georgia Poetry Society Prize

Savannah, Ga., May 12.—(AP)—Conrad Aiken, of Cambridge, Mass., internationally known poet, and Miss Little Scotland West of Savannah, divided the Georgia prize of the poetry society of Georgia, the award of which was announced tonight.

Edward Davison, English poet, now teaching at Yasser, was the judge of the competition in which poems were entered from all southern states and by southerners living elsewhere at the present time.

Conrad Aiken, although he has not lived in Savannah since his childhood, was born in this city and was considered eligible in the competition.

Mr. Davison in a letter to Mrs. Paschal Strong, president of the society, recommended dividing the prize. He said that he found two poems of equal merit out of all those submitted and that it was impossible for him to decide in favor of either one as against the other. They were "Nightmare" by Conrad Aiken and "Path Sequence," two sonnets by Miss West. He praised particularly the second of the two poems. This had been read last year before the poetry society of Georgia.

OBSCENE BOOKS TO BE ADMITTED PENDING RULING

By Lesard Wire to The Constitution and

Washington, May 12.—Classical literature held up by customs officials on grounds of obscenity will be admitted pending a determination of a police for the future. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lincoln C. Andrews announced today after a conference with representatives of book importers.

The ruling applies to copies of an unexpurgated edition of "The Arabian Nights" and of Boccaccio's "Decameron," which were held up by the collector of the port of New York. Mr. Andrews said that inasmuch as the books have been allowed to come in in the past, these particular shipments should be released. He asked the importers, however, not to place additional orders for the foreign publications until treasury officials had canvassed the situation further and decided upon a permanent policy.

GENERAL MOTORS DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND OF $2

New York, May 12.—(Special).—Directors of General Motors, at meetings today, declared on common stock regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share, payable June 13, and extra cash dividend of $2 a share, payable July 5, both to stockholders of record as of May 21.

In addition the regular quarterly dividends were declared on senior securities payable August 1 to stockholders of record of July 5. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president, announced that the corporation's cash position continues strong. The firm's recent marketable securities aggregated approximately $150,000,000.

Flood Fugitives Here Describe Narrow Escape

Fugitives from the raging Mississippi, that two weeks ago swept away their farm home near Greenville, Miss., and buffeted them for perilous hours until a rescue boat picked them off floating wreckage, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stokes and 8-year-old son, Harry, spent Thursday night in Atlanta as guests of the Salvation Army on their way to the home of relatives off from Greenville to Atlanta, and which provided the clothing they are wearing.

The little family escaped countless and hairless from their home at breakfast time just as a wall of roaring water, bursting through the levee, crunched the house from its foundations and sent it spinning through the fields. They were swept with the current for several miles before a cruising relief boat answered their calls for help.

Clothing and food were supplied by the Salvation Army at Greenville and they started about to find temporary harbor with Mrs. Stokes' relatives in Georgia, walking and catching rides with passing motorists.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes were cordial in praise for the Salvation Army, from which they have secured lodging for the night at points along their route.

Retail Druggists Meet.

A regular meeting of the Atlanta Retail Druggists' association will be held next Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the Kay Dickeyman cafeteria in the basement of the Arcade building. Several important business matters will be discussed, it was stated.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER.

INSTALMENT XXIX.

A Speck on the Sea.

Where Piers was concerned, Alan would willingly have laid before him the whole tragic Odyssey of Sophy and himself, only of course it would take a super-mind to understand and sympathize, and Piers Tancred was not even one of the lesser gods.

Alan saw well enough how the affair would be regarded by the world at large. Some romanticists might applaud them, but mighty few people would see anything noble about such an elopement. Who could guarantee that a second union between him and Sophy would prove any more successful than the first?—and that had been pure fiasco.

And yet all this speculation counted for nothing, really. Would Sophy be happy?—or himself, when it came to that? The world would be astonished, indeed, to be told that neither of them expected happiness out of it.

Yet here was the feeling of being driven to do something against all reason and judgment. It had to be done. They had to be together. They had to trample down every obstacle to gain each other again. Every hour that Sophy spent under the roof of the Villa Mona meant the torture rack for Alan Brooke. That torture was driving him mad and anything, a crime even, might be justified to gain him a measure of relief. So he argued in his wilder moments. But there was scarcely any argument, really, and he cared nothing for the justification part of it.

The money, however, was a different matter.

It came back to the sordid fact that without money, a reasonable amount at least, one could not do at all. The "loan" of those 200 pounds to Willie Moppet was a comparatively small matter, but what Christina had helped herself to represented all Alan possessed with the exception of a hundred or so. A his current account. He had plenty of commissions, but they had to be earned, and for some more quite inexpressible reasons, he had lately suffered a period of inactivity, if not of downright laziness.

This thought of poverty—fantastic for a man in the position he had risen to—held him back. It was lack of money, his laziness, or sheer inability to produce what was virtually necessary at a needed crisis, which had been at the bottom of that fatal quarrel in the old days. He couldn't risk a thing like that again. Whether Sophy quarrelled with him had been right or wrong, it had left a tender wound where that particular subject was concerned. And lately she had been used to a great deal of luxury, all of which she had to forego if she came back to him, for luxury as she called it to Alan Brooke, even if he could ever rise to it financially. Still, Sophy must have some comfort to make up for the loss of her maid and her wonderful clothes and jewels, and the Villa Mona and Piers. (Damn Piers!) None of these things could she take with her, except perhaps the clothes she stood in. She must take nothing to remind either Alan or herself of Piers Tancred. Well, money or no money, that elopement would have to be fixed up and soon. Each tortured hour—Alan he couldn't get near her, except for these farcical "sittings" where she was so persistently chaperoned. Piers had drawn upon Lilla Brant, now, as a relief to his own chaperonage, but in the presence of the sly Lilla they were obliged to be doubly on guard.

In one way and another Alan began to collect his meager assets, and risked a cheapening himself by appealing for an advance to the dealer in Paris through whom his first big success had come. He got the money, but also a reminder about the overdue commissions. He wrote back saying that that would be all right, saying he was going to Mappere and settle down there somewhere to work, only please keep his address in strict secret. And then by dint of the most elaborate planning on the part of both Sophy and he managed to spend a whole day together. Up to the very last moment it looked as though they would fail, but in some occult manner Willie Moppet roused himself on the side of their conspiracy, and brought about their success.

When suddenly arranged a gambling party (gentlemen only) for Monte Carlo, and just because he didn't immediately invite Piers to join it, Piers was on tenterhooks to go. Willie had had a car lent him for his party—a car belonging to the Earl of Landell, no less, and it was thought that his lordship might go, also. And on the very day before, when he had about given up hope, Piers Tancred was asked to join them.

It was then that Alan and Sophy were able to carry out their own plans. Yet even so, with Piers bounding merrily towards Monte and hours and hours ahead of them that night, it seemed a matter of urgent necessity to expedite the greater and more decisive plan.

At first impatient with these morbid doubts, Alan soon realized that her fear of Piers was a very real thing to Sophy, and that she would never seem a matter of urgent necessity to expedite the greater and more decisive plan.

It was very pleasant out there on the water, themselves in their little boat a mere speck on that vast shimmering sea; Sophy reclining on cushions, her head under her green-lined parasol, Alan hunched, too, his skin golden, his shirt open at the throat. This recalled other days when they had sailed the Seine, or the river, those pleasant and sometimes secluded reaches above Crookham. But this was very different, really. Themselves and their little boat—no more than a speck on that vast sea.

And all went to the heaping of fuel upon their passionate longing for each other; all tended to the complete conviction that "things could not go on." "Sophy, you will come away with me, won't you? That Paris divorce—it was no divorce, really. I don't believe it's even legal in England. O Sophy, why did you do it?"

"Why did you let me?"

"Because I thought you didn't care for me any more. I thought I'd killed you. After the baby died, I thought you did seem to hate me, then. A couple of tears trickled down her cheeks. "Yes—I did hate you, in a sort of way. But you oughtn't to've let me do what I did. You were stronger than I."

"Was I? I'm not so sure. There's something about you, Sophy—your softness, your helplessness, that's stronger than a dozen men."

"Then I must have been an awful fool to take advantage of you," Sophy confessed sorrowfully. "O hell! Let's have something to eat."

They fell upon Christina's sandwiches and pates as a relief to those torturing reminiscences. Yet—Christina! Sophy wondered she didn't choke over her lunch. It seemed so cruel, so wanton, to use Christina in this way.

Later they talked, and more in the oldtime fashion. Sophy's "funny little notions" as Alan had always called her absurd way of putting things. Until that dreadful and most tragic quarrel separated them, they had always been so companionable, so entirely understanding, one of the other. And now he remembered that she had never minded poverty for herself alone; it was only because of the poor little baby and its needs that she had gone for him with such seeming heartlessness. And she had always had faith in him even in the dark days of the wretched Paris studio where she sat so often perched on the window seat darning her socks and smoking that cigarette she didn't so much care about, but which helped to dull the edge of her healthy young appetite.

"Only wait, Sophy, you and I... one day I'll be famous, and then you shall have everything," he vowed. (Continued Tomorrow.)

Miss Lonsdale Weds Mr. Ramsey At Quiet Ceremony in St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., May 12.—Mr. and Mrs. John Gerdes Lonsdale, of St. Louis, announce the marriage of their daughter, Aileen Brower, to Winfrey Stuart Ramsey, of Atlanta, which was quietly solemnized Wednesday evening, May 11, at St. Peter's Episcopal church. The marriage was scheduled to take place Monday evening, May 30, at the bride's parents' country home, Cherry Hill, near St. Louis, and was to have been a brilliant social event assembling several hundred guests.

The announcement of the marriage at an earlier date than previously announced will come as a complete surprise to the many friends of the bride and groom in St. Louis and Atlanta, where they are both well known and popular members of society.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gerdes Lonsdale, of St. Louis, Mo. Her father is the president of the National Bank of Commerce, of this city, one of the largest banks west of the Mississippi. She was graduated from Washington seminary, in Atlanta, being a member of the Phi Pi sorority, and then attended Holton Arms school, in Washington, D. C. Upon completing her education, she spent a year in traveling abroad, making a formal bow to society in St. Louis last winter.

She has been a frequent visitor to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lloyd Brower, and her aunt, Mrs. Cliff C. Hatcher, in Atlanta.

Mr. Ramsey is the son of the late William R. Ramsey and Mrs. William R. Ramsey, of Atlanta, who was before her marriage Miss Mattie Byrdine McClure, of Louisville, Ky. He is the grandson of the late John R. McClure and the present Mrs. Oris Hadden, of Louisville. His grandmother, Susan Elizabeth Winfrey, was a member of one of the pioneer families of Kentucky.

Mr. Ramsey was educated at the University of Virginia, being a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. His parents moved to Atlanta from Louisville in 1917, and he has made his home there since completing his education.

Mr. Ramsey and his bride left for a wedding trip immediately after the ceremony. They will make their home in Atlanta, where the groom is prominent in business and social realms.

TECH INVADES ATHENS FOR FINAL GAMES OF SERIES

Two Tilts Mark End Of Season for Jackets

Claymen Will Attempt to Break Even by Winning—Four Jackets Sing Swan Song.

BY HOWARD EATON.

COACH KID ALEX CLAY'S exponents of baseball leave this morning for a two-game session with the perennial and bitter Athenian enemies, the University of Georgia.

The best the Tech stars can do is to halve the four-game series. Already they have dropped two to the Bulldogs. Now they can win two.

Should the Techmen display the returning form that has marked their four tries since the Georgia series, then things will be warmer than they were in the two debacles at Spillers. Otherwise, well—

It will be the final starts of four college careers for members of the Tech brigade. The two speed demons, Moreland and Wilbur, will be in a Tech based uniform for the last time. Tom Angley, the captain, and Walter, the pitcher, will be leading their charges for a final spurt and Clay will be fighting for his last diamond sortie for Tech.

Wilder, however, will not start. But he will be on the bench in uniform. Being the last series of the season, the Tech work for the year might pass in parade. As is to be expected, Tech is one of the conference leaders, but it is not a champion, and dependable old sluggers is a lack that is noticeable. The fielding hasn't been of a great and marvellous variety, but the lack of the fastest and most accurate work of the inner works into the hospital.

KAIN OR STEWART TO DO HURLING.
Athens, Ga., May 12.—(Special.)—Editor "Shaky" Kain or "Lefty" Stewart is likely to carry the pitching burden of the Georgia Bulldogs here tomorrow in the opener of the final series, the Tech jackets.

According to Coach White tonight it is probable that the dunker not seeing tomorrow will be used Saturday in the final. However, there still remains some doubt as to the Saturday choice, for Jack Walter will receive lots of consideration. Stewart is the only left-handed chucker of the local pitching corps and his debut against the Jackets will be watched with great interest. The Jackets, with a sweep of the former series naturally holds an edge. Also, the Bulldogs, as a team have enjoyed a more successful season in hitting, and a better brand of pitching has been offered by the Red and Black hurlers. Just to what extent this might serve as a net gain in this series is left for your conjecture, however, for anything is likely to result. There will be two changes in the Bulldog lineup as against the former series. Billy Amonovich will romp in the center pasture, and "Chick" Shiver will play shortstop in the absence of Glenn Chaffin. The latter was one of the hitting stars of the series played in Atlanta. Playing short last week against North Carolina, Shiver performed in excellent style.

Roy Jacobson, who filled the gap in Amonovich's absence, will hold down a berth in the outfield left vacant by Shiver. Otherwise the lineup remains intact with Nash, Fran, and

Polo Match Features Fort Card

Varied Program at McPherson Sunday Gives Fans Chance To Witness Thrilling Game.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Atlanta, without realizing it, possibly, and being given a chance—and this is no sales patter, either—to make money and at the same time to contribute towards a good cause when the "dollar day" sale of athletic events for the benefit of the Disabled American Veterans is staged at Fort McPherson Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock.

The sports program arranged for Sunday afternoon by Lieutenant Weckerling, athletic officer of the fort, consists of two ball games, polo, tennis, and a horse race. The polo match, a polo match, a chance to see Bobby Jones in action, a lot of music, and comedy and nonsensical fun, horse racing, and riding, a quick eye and hand riding.

A short match is slated for 4:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon between the Bulldogs and the Tech. The Fort Atlanta has taken the opportunity to watch this the most spectacular and thrilling of games. It entails a quick eye and hand riding, a quick eye and hand riding.

A short match is slated for 4:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon between the Bulldogs and the Tech. The Fort Atlanta has taken the opportunity to watch this the most spectacular and thrilling of games. It entails a quick eye and hand riding, a quick eye and hand riding.

Both men have appeared in matches at the fort this season, and only two weeks ago, in a tilt with the Fort Benning team, one of the best in this section, Christian and Clark formed a combination that came within one goal of defeating the visitors.

Sunday's match gives promise of being a hard-fought one, and, besides being one of the many good largescale events of the season, it will also offer something of "this game called polo."

HAM- EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

A Legion of Golfers.

There may not be as much good golf at the Forrest Hills links today as might be seen at Oakmont next month but there will just as much fun or a bit more when the Legionnaires of Atlanta and Georgia gather for their one-day tournament.

Under present plans, the dub will have as much chance to figure in the prize list as the shark, because a handicap round will be played in the morning for the purpose of placing handicaps on the players and prizes will be mostly for the net scores. The bird who shoots 105 will have just as good a score with his handicap as the expert who cards an 85. Of course, this is not meant to be interpreted as a setting of handicaps. That is to be done by the committee this morning at the course, but the example holds anyhow.

After looking over the list of prizes one bright lad in our office wanted to know if the King Hardware people are going to get the two golf holes they have offered for a prize, from some practice course.

From all indications the annual press tournament is going to have some real competition in its race for the greatest fiasco of the season on the golf course. This may be judging all the entries by some of the names we recognize (including our own) but if there are any course records set today we apologize.

Sports Events.

Saturday, the classic of the turf, the Kentucky derby, will be run at Louisville. It brings together the whole "beer barrel" of American sports followers—the team, the solid substantial, and the dregs. But that is what makes it the Kentucky derby, the greatest among sports spectacles, and that is what provides the customary glamour.

Sunday the mammoth carnival of sports at Fort McPherson will be staged. Lieutenant John Weckerling will be one of the nation's busiest men, what with all his expected dollar apiece customers and all his athletes to look after.

Many other events are booked. Plenty pieces for the papers.

Ban Bursts Forth.

After the wearing winter of one thing and another called scandal, but which was more or less farce, Ban Johnson breaks forth again. Ban's mighty thunder was like an apologetic roar for his actions in lifting the suspension of Cobb and Simmons. When all is said and done it will amount to nothing—nothing at all.

Cornelius McGillicuddy is a smart and an irascible ancient, and if he had found anything in Johnson's fiery fiat that called for trouble, disagreement or anything else, one can be sure that it would have bubbled out.

"I am sorry Mr. Johnson did not see fit to give the players concerned and the Philadelphia club a hearing before reaching his decision." That sums up Mack's comment. Which reminds us that it was Johnson who had convicted Cobb and Speaker last winter before they had been given a hearing.

And after Johnson's uncompromising letter, one wonders just how much Mack would like to contribute to the $100,000 offered Jimmy Walker to become president of the American league.

Tech, L. S. U. Favored In S. C. Track Meet

11 Schools Await Opening of Annual Cinder Program Today at Baton Rouge.

Baton Rouge, La., May 12.—(AP)—Handpicked track and field stars from 11 southern universities and colleges were gathering here tonight, keyed to the highest pitch for the annual southern intercollegiate conference track and field meet to be held here tomorrow and Saturday.

Louisiana State university and Georgia Tech, with the largest team, ruled favorites to capture the meet this year. Both teams have shown exceptionally well in meets so far this season and as North Carolina, winner of the 1926 meet, sent only a small number of participants, dopsters named the Tigers and Jackets to win.

Entry lists remained open until midnight, and it was probable that other institutions would place teams in the field, as none of the schools in the northeastern part of the conference, including Virginia Polytechnic, Virginia Military academy, Washington and Lee and Virginia, had filed entries late today.

Georgia Tech with 28 men named for the event, topped Louisiana State by one in number entered. Other institutions named numbered the following contestants: Mississippi A. and M.; Tennessee; University of Georgia; University of North Carolina; Vanderbilt; Tulane; Clemson and Kentucky, 3 each.

Hamm, Georgia Tech sprinter and jumper, was favored as the individual star of the meet. The Tech star has victories in the 100 and 220-yard dashes to his credit, and last week won the broad jump in the Penn relay.

Neeson, L. S. U., with records in the shotput already to his credit, and F. M. Tate, Mississippi A. and M., in the javelin, were considered certain to garner points in these events for their teams. East, L. S. U., is expected to top the field in the high jump, having consistently cleared the bar at close to 6 feet.

McPherson, Elliott and Pritchett, Georgia Tech, and Jacobs, Texas Tech, are expected to carry the burden of point winning for North Carolina, and with help from the five remaining members of the team, there were some who saw in them a threat for title honors.

Elliott holds the conference mile record. McPherson is equipped with a pair of flying heels for the dashes and Pritchett is a two-miler.

Qualifying heats for the dashes and field events will be held tomorrow with the finals to be staged Saturday.

Thousands who have piles don't know that quick and permanent relief can be accomplished with HEM-ROID medicine. Cutting out any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will not remove the cause. Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood in circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonard found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonard tried it in many, many cases with a wonderful record of success. Such a cure is not a money-back guarantee. Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Jacobs, Drug Stores today. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you.—(adv.)

Ladies Today.
With an evident desire to appease Dame Fortune by bestowing favors upon members of her sex, Pell J. Spiller announced Thursday afternoon that today will be Ladies' day at the ball park, as will all Fridays from this time forward.

Tuesday has been Ladies' day thus far, and will continue to be a free day for the fairer sex, but another lay has been added each week.

It is rumored at the ball park that the announcement was made for the special benefit of Ray Francis, premier ladies' man, who will probably hurl against the Bears today in the second game of their series.

Gilbert Hits Triple With Hassocks Full

Both Teams Total 30 Base Knocks During Slugfest—Game Today at 3 O'Clock.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

A MOST successful effort to prove to a few doubting Thomases that they have not lost all sense of location regarding a flung baseball, Mr. Niehoff's Crackers literally leaped upon three Mobile hurlers Thursday afternoon and bludgeoned them with a 10-7 victory in the first game of the series with the Alabama.

With a superstitious eye cast upon the morrow, the charges of Mr. Spiller decided it would be an excellent time to get one jump ahead of Lady Luck and win a game before Friday, the 13th, came along with its uncertainty of fortune. They did just that, even though the visitors, with their three flingers and 14 satellites, were constantly threatening.

Evidence bent upon sending Cliff Markle to the showers, the Bears leaped from their dugout in the initial frame and scored three runs when Hood, H. Welsh and Schreiber singled in succession and Palmisano sacrificed.

A three-run lead with Hilton—who did some fine flinging for the Bears in other years—in the box, seemed to the Crackers backers like a lot of runs but the hanging bats of the locals told a different tale and when Mr. Hilton had emerged from the barrage at the end of the inning, nine Crackers had strung their plate and five of them had crossed it on the way home.

Cuto, the Cuban clown, started the grotesque display by slapping a single to left field after Frankie Zoeller had grounded out. Billy Riehl, who seems to be in something of a hitting slump for a few days, also grounded out but that did not end the festivities. Haas singled to left, scoring Cuto and after Frank Welsh had walked, the "Mile" scored on Gilbert's knock to left. Harry Schwab slapped a long drive to center for the next act and Welsh scored while Gilbert stopped at third. That knotted the count, but Johnny Brock was not satisfied with the equality of the race and evidenced his dissatisfaction by banging a ball to center to score Gilbert and Schwab. Cliff Markle, knowing that it would be necessary to start keeping the box score in a new column he did not retire. Heled a fly to H. Welsh in right, field and the Crackers left the plate two runs in the lead and never to be headed.

For a couple more innings, it looked like the game might end just as the first inning did, but in the fourth the Crackers decided to bring another rally to the list, and with this in view Haas hit his second single of the day, and after Frank Welsh had also singled, Walter Gilbert lashed his second hit of the game through third base, scoring Haas. Schwab popped to Schreiber and Brock read Welsh at third, to end the inning, but the Crackers had taken a three-run lead.

Coming forward in the fifth inning with the heavy end of their list at the plate, the visitors obtained another run off the delivery of Markle when Williams singled, Hood walked and Stock singled to left, sending Williams across the plate. The rally was running as far as it went, but its life was snuffed out when H. Welsh forced Stock at second and Schreiber flied to Mule Haas in deep center.

The Bear rally was most inappropriate, for it aroused the ire of the Crackers and Mr. Niehoff's playmates proceeded to put the game on ice in their half of the fifth by talking four runs on singles by Markle, Cuto, Haas and Welsh with a triple by Gilbert racked on the end with the bags loaded.

While most of the Crackers fattened their batting averages at the expense of the Bear hurlers Billy Riehl, prime favorite with the fans and the lad who has been responsible for no few base knocks in this Southern league so far this season, only managed to get one hit and that one was a bunt down the first base line which he beat by a fractional second.

In contrast to their bad day on Wednesday the Crackers had a fine day in the field with but one error on the list and that one most excusable.

Chicago Cubs Break Home Run Records.
The statistical boards, digging into the facts and figures, discovered today that the Cubs had broken the National league record for consecutive home run hitting.

To date McCarthy's players have hit a homer in nine consecutive games from April 28 to yesterday, bagging 12 home runs in this period.

The Giants hit consecutively in eight games from July 8 to 15, 1924, for the National league's previous high mark.

TOM SEWELL GOES TO CUBS FROM DE

Tusculum, Ala., May 12.—(Special.)—Tommy Sewell, captain and star third baseman of this year's University of Alabama baseball team, today announced that he had accepted the terms of a contract submitted him by the Chicago Cubs, and would report around June 1. It is said that three major league clubs had been bidding for his services, but the Chicago offer was the most favorable.

In making the difficult jump direct to the big leagues from a college campus, Tommy is following in the footsteps of his two brothers, Joe and Luke, who likewise made enviable records while at the University of Alabama.

Tommy has been cracking the ball way above the 300 mark for the last two years, and his fielding has been of high order. He bats from the right side of the plate, and is able to hit southpaws as easily as the orthodox flingers.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles don't know that quick and permanent relief can be accomplished with HEM-ROID medicine. Cutting out any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will not remove the cause. Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood in circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonard found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonard tried it in many, many cases with a wonderful record of success. Such a cure is not a money-back guarantee. Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Jacobs, Drug Stores today. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you.—(adv.)
